First Reading:

Isaiah 63: 16b-17, 19b

Reading from first book name Isaiah

Lord our father, You save us. You allow us stray — from You, why? You allow us stubborn, rebel, why? We your servants, please come back us; our families belong You.

Open heavens, come down, let mountains shake. In past, You appear, do things terrible, we not expect. Your people pay— attention completely, never; no person see God same You. Have other gods none, only You. People need patience; You will do wonderful things for them. If only You can see us do right, know we believe You presence with us. We sin; Your anger appears. Sin with us, compare same wear dirty clothes, or leaves dead wind—blows— away. We don't trust You, don't worship You. You hide from us; our guilt overcome us. But, You Lord, our Father true; ourselves compare same clay, You potter; You make us with Your hands.

This reading from Lord.
